Explanation for Causes of Saen al-din Ali Turkeh' Inconsistency with Khurasanian Sunnism during Shahrukh Timurid Period

Abulhassan Fayaz Anosh*

Timurids adopted a specific religious policy which can be interpreted as "recrudescence to the Khurasanian Sunnism paradigm" during 9th century AH/14th century AD. Opponents of this attitude had been repressed by the support from political power of Timur's successors notably Shahrukh. Shaikh Saen al-din Ali Turkeh (770-835 AH) is amongst those whose activities and ideas was suspected as inconsistent with intellectual-religious policy of the government. The aim of this article is to answer this question that regardless of Saen al-din's amicable tack, why government was always distrusted him. Therefore, the main issue of this article is to explain the connection between Shahrukh's religious policies with Saen al-din Ali Turkeh's preferences.

Keywords: Saen al-din Ali Turkeh, Kurasanian Sunnism, Inconsistency, Shahrukh Timurid.

*Assistant Professor at History Department of University of Isfahan (anosh.amir@yahoo.com)
Received 30 Jan 2013, Accepted 22 May 2014